NOVEMBER

2023

FR JULIAN WRITES...

November is in many ways a season of remembrance. We remember all the saints as we keep All Saints' Sunday on the 5th November; we remember our loved ones at All Souls, with the Sung Requiem Mass at 6.30pm (cards for loved ones' names at the back of church) and, of course, we have Remembrance Sunday on November 12th. Please also remember that Evening Prayer is now at 4pm (from 5th November) and services that week onwards are in the vestry!

In this season of remembrance we cannot but think about the tragedy unfolding in Gaza. Thousands of innocent people, both Israeli and Palestinian, have lost their lives, been injured or made homeless. Aid is only trickling slowly in, the UN is unable to work any longer due to fuel shortages, hospital staff are using their mobile phones to see patients, and the ground offensive still hangs (at the time of writing) over the situation like the sword of Damocles. We must remember the conflict there and the ongoing one in Ukraine. The three specific church occasions mentioned above can help us in our remembering.

As you will know from previous magazines, I write a little bit about some saints, not just the good and the great, the 'red letter day' ones, but ones less well-known, but who have been honoured by God's church for the way they have lived their lives, and in some cases, have died, for the faith. All Saints' Sunday is a day when we can collect all our thanksgivings for the saints' witness into one great celebration. What we must also remember is that the saints are still continuing their work of witness and intercession. As 'saints' they are considered to be in the presence of God, and so can pour forth their prayers from a closer position, for us! So we can call on the prayers of the saints to join our own as we remember. We all know that All Souls' is the time when we particularly recall those whom we love and see no longer. At the service, the Book of Remembrance, usually in the St Michael's chapel, is placed on the altar, as we remember those who may have no one else to do so. Every time I use the 'anniversary' list, I will recognise the names of those I've known, and bring my memories to mind – that is what 'remembering' is. At any requiem, we pray for the repose of the departed, still showing our love for them, and giving thanks to God that through the death and resurrection of his Son, the gate to eternal life is opened for us. No longer is death, literally, a 'dead end'.

Like many churches, Holy Trinity has a war memorial, in the Lady Chapel. This was created by Thomas Vicker in memory of a son killed in the 1st World War – the credence table and altar also. On the altar side of the screen is the dedication; not many perhaps have looked at it. I find this significant because it shows it was placed for the glory of God, the carving being on the altar side where it is not so easily seen, rather than on the people's side in the nave where it could be seen by all. Sadly there is no memorial to 2nd World War victims. WW1 was seen as the war to end all wars; sadly, it wasn't and we can see how armed conflict and its results continue even to this day.

So what do we do when we 'remember'? We're not just wallowing in the past and becoming maudlin. True remembrance is what it says – re-membering, joining the past to the present so that the past can be brought into the present, and inform the future. All the three acts of remembrance offer the opportunity for us to recall the sacrifice of many in the past, loved ones and members of our church family, and victims of armed conflict and war in too many places the world today. In recalling, we bring them into our today, and relying on their prayers, their example and their presence learn from them how to work for a future when remembrance brings only joy not pain.

With my prayers and good wishes

MANY THANKS! Donations are still coming in, but many thanks to all of you who contributed to last month's Gift Day. The total so far (including tax recoverable) is £2,792.

NOVEMBER SAINTS - Fr Julian's idiosyncratic selection of saints

3rd St Winifride (7th century) However you spell her name, a suitor, Caradog, was enraged when she spurned him to become a nun. He cut off her head, and where it landed, a spring gushed forth. Her head was miraculously rejoined to her body, so does this count as martyrdom?! The spring is now a place of pilgrimage in Holywell, Flintshire, Wales, and has been described as the 'Lourdes of Wales'.

7th St Willibrord (c658-739) He became a Benedictine monk under the tutelage of Wilfred of York, living in community in Ireland for 12 years. As a missionary he was sent to the Frisians in the Netherlands, and became the first bishop of Utrecht.

10th St Leo (c400-461) As a pope he was the first to be called 'the Great' and is renowned for meeting with Attila the Hun, and persuading him not to attack Italy. As a theologian, he is remembered as a doctor of the Church, developing arguments concerning he nature of Christ in light of contemporary heresies.

16th St Margaret of Scotland (c1045-93) St Margaret of Scotland was a pious woman, who was the mother of three kings of Scotland. She had fled north following her brother, Edgar's, failure to be recognised as King of England, and married King Malcolm III. Amongst her many acts of charity, she established a ferry for pilgrims travelling to St Andrew's in Fife across the Firth of Forth, giving the towns of North and South Queensferry their names. There is a large statue of her by the grotto in Lourdes.

17th St Hilda (c614 - 680) was a saint of the early Church in Britain. She was the founder and first abbess of the monastery at Whitby which was chosen as the venue for the Synod of Whitby in 664. An important figure in the Christianisation of Anglo-Saxon England, she was abbess in several convents and recognised for the wisdom that drew kings to her for advice. Details of her life were recorded by Bede in his 'Ecclesiastical History of the English People' in 731.

17th St Hugh (c1140-1200) Brought up as a French Benedictine, he became a member of the 'Great Chartreuse' a reformed Benedictine order. He came to England where he founded the first Carthusian (as members of the Order were called) priory at Hinton Charterhouse here in Somerset. As Bishop of Lincoln, he was an exemplary pastor and protector of the persecuted Jewish community.

20th St Edmund, King and Martyr (c841-869. Little is known of Edmund as records were destroyed in Viking attacks. He is the patron of pandemics (so has been busy recently) and of kings. He was King of Anglia, reigning for 14 years until his death. It is not known if he was killed in battle with the Vikings or executed by them for his faith. In the C10 his remains were interred in St Edmundsbury, and until St George usurped him and St Edward Confessor, was patron saint of England.

22nd St Cecilia (c220/30-) As musicians plated at her wedding, Cecilia 'sang in her heart' to the Lord. She was forced to marry a pagan, Valerian, but declared there could be no marital relations as an angel was watching over her. Valerian declared he couldn't see the angel, so Cecilia told him to go the third milestone on the Via Appia outside Rome and be baptised by Pope Urban I. He was and he did. Valerian and his brother were martyred as was Cecilia. Struck in the neck by a sword three times, she lived three days, asking that a church be built on the site of her house, possibly St Cecilia in Trastevere.

23rd St Columbanus (543-615) was an Irish missionary notable for founding a number of monasteries after 590 in the Frankish and Lombard kingdoms. Columbanus taught an Irish monastic rule and penitential practices for those repenting of sins, which emphasised private confession to a priest, followed by penances levied by the priest in reparation for the sins. Columbanus is one of the earliest identifiable Hiberno-Latin writers. He is the patron saint of motor- cyclists!

A PRAYER FOR THE HOLY LAND

A prayer from Hosam Naoum, The Archbishop of Jerusalem:

O God of all justice and peace, we cry out to you in the midst of the pain and trauma of violence and fear which prevails in the Holy Land. Be with those who need you in these days of suffering; we pray for people of all faiths – Jews, Muslims and Christians and for all people of the land. While we pray to you, O Lord, for an end to violence and the establishment of peace, we also call for you to bring justice and equity to the peoples. Guide us into your kingdom where all people are treated with dignity and honour as your children – for to all of us, you are our heavenly father. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.

MARTINMAS

There are a number of special days in November, starting with All Saints and All Souls at the beginning of the month, through to Bonfire night, Remembrance Day, Christ the King and St Andrew's Day at the end of the month. However, one day that is often overlooked is St Martin's Day or Martinmas (sometimes historically called Old Halloween or Old Hallowmas Eve) which is the feast day of St Martin of Tours (d.397) on 11th November.

In medieval and early modern times Martinmas was an important festival in this country, especially in northern England and Scotland but although still celebrated across Europe, it has died out here and the day has been taken over since 1918 by Remembrance or Armistice Day.

St Martin of Tours was a very popular and influential saint. Martin was born in the early 4th century in Pannonia, Hungary. He became a soldier and served in the Roman cavalry in Gaul (France) which at the time was mainly a pagan country with a few Christian centres. Martin was interested in Christianity and eventually left the army to become a priest. When later made Bishop of Tours his influence was immense and he became a central figure in laying the foundations of Christian France.

Martin is best known for the tale whereby when still a soldier he cut his cloak in half with his sword, to give half to a drunken beggar who was dressed in only rags in the depth of winter. That night Martin had a vision of Jesus Christ wearing the half-cloak. This led to Martin being baptised.

Another tale tells of how Martin was unwilling to be made bishop. He tried to avoid being ordained as such by hiding in a pen of geese but their cackling at his intrusion gave him away. Hence geese are one of the symbols of St Martin and goose is often eaten where Martinmas is celebrated today.

Traditionally Martinmas was a festival marking the end of harvest. It was a time for feasting and the start of preparations for winter. Livestock were slaughtered for winter provision and Martinmas beef was salted and preserved. Beef and goose were the meats of choice for Martinmas celebrations (please see this month's recipe which is for Martinmas Beef). In the Middle Ages fairs were often held at Martinmas. One of the most famous was in Nottingham which ran for 8 days with people coming from all over Europe to trade and meet.

Curiously, Martinmas, like St Swithin's Day, is associated with weather predictions many of which involve ducks or geese. According to folklore, if the weather is warm on St Martin's Day, then a harsh winter will follow; conversely, if the weather at Martinmas is icy, then by Christmas it will be much warmer:

> 'If ducks do slide at Martinmas At Christmas they will swim; If ducks do swim at Martinmas At Christmas they will slide'

'Ice before Martinmas, Enough to bear a duck. The rest of winter, Is sure to be but muck!'

St Martin, because of his generosity towards a drunken beggar, with whom he shared his cloak, is the patron saint of beggars, drunkards and the poor. As his feast day falls during the wine harvest in Europe, he is also the patron saint of wine growers and innkeepers. For those who like a glass of wine, St Martin is widely attributed in France with helping to spread winemaking throughout the region of Tours (Touraine). He is credited with introducing the Chenin Blanc grape from which most white wine of western Touraine and Anjou is made.

Although Remembrance Day is rightly an important day, please also spare a thought for Martinmas and St Martin of Tours on 11th November.

THE BROKEN SOUL By Maura Kelly

They thought that I was down and out They thought that I was done The more they kept me on the ground The more I looked towards that sun

And as those rays of light shone down To warm my aging face I found my shoulders rise once more As I stood in humble grace

No tears, no regrets, no shattered life Will destroy my battered soul Instead I'll fight and pursue each dream As I move towards my goal

The ridicule, the words of harm The insults and the pain Endured by a man whose defiant spirit Fights back to erase his shame

When a man is lost and feels all alone He must look within himself And rid his thoughts of any doubt That his life is blessed with wealth

No gold, no silver to weigh him down Only pennies small and few But in his heart he carries the belief That his life can be renewed

Blows and strikes may knock you over In a life that's tough and hard But a winner will find inside his mind The strength to rebuild his guard

So look towards that sun my lad When your battles near their end And remember this as you rise again That a broken soul can mend

CRAFTERS' NEWS

The crafter's have been making headway on the kneelers for the Lady Chapel. Four have now been completed and six more are in progress.

Looking around the church some of the older plain ones could do with replacing and we are happy to do more.

The kits we are using come with a label to attach to the back that can be filled in with the makers name, who it's dedicated to and who funded it.

So far the crafter's have funded them their selves with one generous donation, but as they are fairly expensive we are hoping to get some donations. If you could help please contact myself or Jenni Llewellyn.

As always we welcome any new crafter's to join us on Thursday afternoons, you don't even have to craft just come along for a chat and a cuppa.
